Product Description

Using the T-Mech Handheld Ultraviolet Money Scanner, you can check banknotes instantly and make sure they're the real deal, thereby protecting yourself from crime or from committing a crime by accepting anything fake.

The UV light shows watermarks and UV ink on banknotes or official documents, so you can tell instantly whether to accept them or not. Instantly check cash, driving licences, passports, credit cards, cheques, ID cards and smart water property markings.

Because it's battery operated, it's perfect for using on the move, for example on public transport, or at market stalls, festivals or other events where plug sockets are in short supply but cash or documents need to be properly checked.

With the handy strap and fold-out attachment you can either use this as a handheld device or set it up on a table or desk.

Need to check cash or documents in the dark? No problem, because the T-Mech handheld counterfeit cash ultraviolet scanner also has a built-in torch, so there's no way any fakery is getting past you.
